ORGANIC DRIED SICILIAN ORANGE

If you cross south-eastern Sicily, between Etna and the sea, between the Hyblaean mountains and the countryside caressed by the sirocco, you will be struck by an expanse of orange groves that stretches as far as the eye can see.

Here is the birthplace of the Sicilian orange: tarocco, moro, sanguinello are the names of varieties that are striking for the chromatic characteristics of their pulp, which varies from rosé to carmine up to purple red. Their taste is unique, difficult to describe without losing any detail.

Description – Production method

We have selected the best Sicilian oranges, we have peeled them, sliced and dried them at a temperature below 40 degrees.

They are perfect for a drink with friends and to keep in your pocket to always have a healthy and fragrant snack at hand.
